65TH ANNUAL ARIZONA TREASURE HUNT

We would like to thank you for participating in the 65th annual edition of the Arizona Treasure Hunt in the Valley of the Sun! The 2015 Hunt Committee sincerely hopes you enjoyed 'Jackass To The Future.'

Each year we recognize the top three amateur status teams during the post-Hunt celebration. In addition, the performance of some other teams, including professional status teams and rookie teams, may be recognized.

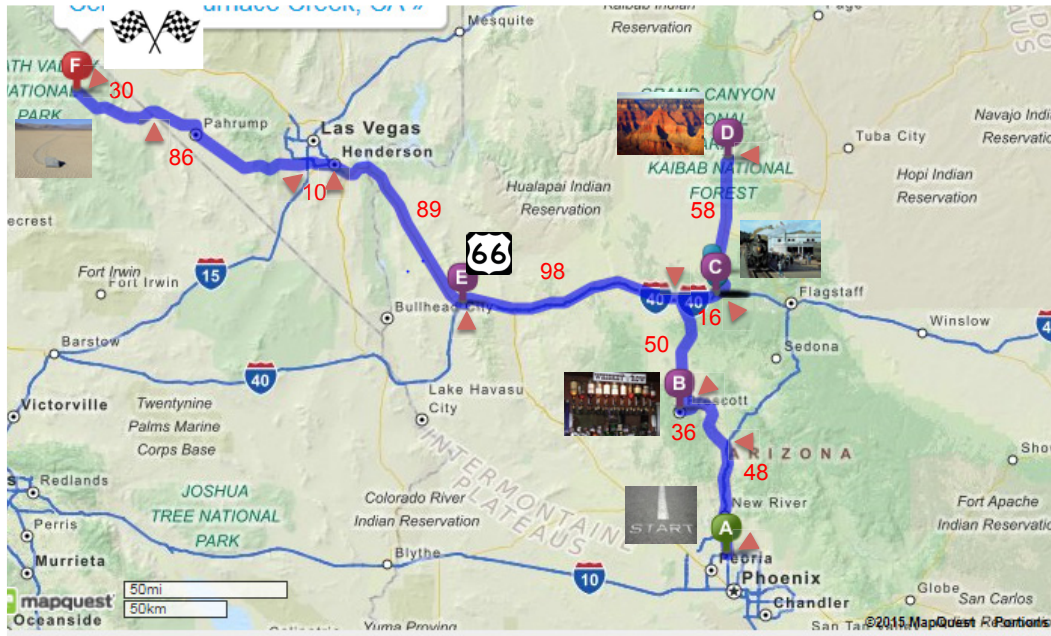

While the annual prizes have little monetary value, competition for first place remains spirited. The red Wizard hats awarded to Hunt winners continue to be one of every Wizard's most prized possessions. Each first place winner also earns the fleeting privilege and immense responsibility of serving a three-year term on the Arizona Treasure Hunt Committee.

The astute Hunter will remember Sammy Hagar's ditty "I Can't Drive 55" and the reminder to fill up with a full tank of gas or a full charge before the race. Leafing through all of the papers from the brown bag that have since fallen onto the floor, the perceptive hunter would notice that the ranges of 5 of the fuel efficient cars correlate with the mileage between stopping points. If one looks at the map, there are 4 stopping points prior to the finish line. Add up each of the red mileage markers on the map between stops and each point correlates to where each of the cars would run out of charge/gas if fully used. The Nissan Leaf would only go 84 miles and therefore make it to Prescott to visit Whiskey Row. The BMW i3 REx has a range of 150 miles and would make it to Williams to travel on the Grand Canyon Railway. The Tesla 60 would last 208 miles to the South Rim of the Grand Canyon while the Chevy Volt would make it further, 380 miles, to Kingman to travel down Route 66. Only the Toyota Prius would make it the full 595 miles, all of the way to the finish line in Furnace Creek, CA to visit Death Valley National Park. Follow the Prius all of the way to

This clue consists of a long pipe propped up on two wooden stands in the middle of the desert.

The pipe has an opening on one end while the other is sealed with a clear window for viewing.

Multiple holes are present along the underside of the pipe.

If you are unable to solve this clue, or to find Clue C, open emergency envelope 21, which will direct you to Clue C.

This is emergency solution 21, which will lead you to Clue C.

This clue is a working visual consisting of a long sloped pipe leading into a container with a viewing hole. Since the high end is open and inviting, the inquisitive Hunter will naturally want to investigate what happens when water is poured into it. Good thing the HWOV recommended that Hunters bring four gallons with them. But hold on, the water is leaking out of the bottom of the pipe! Looks like the entire Hunt team will need to assist by plugging these holes with their hands so that the container can fill up. This includes one hole beneath the container itself.

Once enough water fills the container, multiple ping pong balls float into the viewing area with music symbols on them. Music loving Hunters will immediately realize that they are “streaming” music and remember that the brown bag had an article about Taylor Swift streaming her album on Apple Music. So plug in those earbuds, Shake It Off and travel in Style over to

A clever hunter would realize that this Book of Idioms is not a book at all but rather a combination lock safe. And the really clever Hunter would remember the list of idioms from the HWOW:

Behind the eight ball

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush

Back to square one

If at first you don't succeed, try and try again

A combination lock and idioms that mention numbers eight, two, and one. Trying each of the 6 combinations of this number trio gets you the solution. Big corporations seem to have a theme in their naming conventions – Apple Macbook AIR, Amazon Kindle FIRE, and Google's EARTH. What do these three things have in common – well that is elementary my dear Watson – Earth, Air and Fire are 3 of the 4 elements in the classic model of nature. So it appears that we are missing the element water. Who else is missing the element water? Well the state of California has been in a massive drought for the last several years and bottled water companies are a major source of controversy. According to the article on the HWO the major corporation at the center of the controversy is Nestle, so head on over to  which is their Corporate logo.

This visual clue consists of a pair of binoculars (stored in a container on a post) and a notice displaying ‘Tips for Beginners’.

Tips For Beginners

- Use your binoculars and keep your eye on it.
- Do NOT approach! Keep your distance.
- Keep quiet to avoid disturbing it.
- Estimate general size and shape.
- Make note of any markings.
- Identify color.
- No sudden movements!
- Record observations.
- Sketch subject.
- Best time for viewing usually between 6:15-11:30pm

In the distance there is a lighted area. When you look at the lighted area through the binoculars, you see a gold apple.

Binoculars and helpful ‘Tips for Beginners’ – it looks like we are supposed to watch something, but what could that be?

Observant Hunters will have spotted the lighted object out in the desert – and using the binoculars would have identified it as an apple.

Forget the wildlife, you are on an Apple Watch! But wait, this isn’t just any apple. Following the ‘Tips for Beginners’ you should also take care to identify the color as gold. It is a Gold Apple Watch that you are on.

Luckily the Brown Bag has a list of various Apple Watch prices with the Gold Apple Watch costing a whopping 10,000 dollars.

The first picture is a space ship, but not the common X-wing popular with Nerf herders, but the Y-wing version instead. Then there is a poster from Return of the Jedi, which was the third movie released to theaters back in 1983, but it is the 6th movie in the timeline. The next part is the famous quote between our hero and his instructor, but missing a single word (afraid). Finally we have the name of the new Star Wars movie due out later this year - Episode 7 The Force Awakens. So the riddle reads "Y-wing is Episode 6 afraid of Episode 7?" or "Why is 6 afraid of 7?" Well you would be afraid too if you knew that seven 'ate' nine. So head on over to that hive of scum and villainy known as

This clue is a word search filled with the names of astronomical objects. Upon finding and circling all of the words an observant Hunter will see the name Spock spelled out. That's right, this has been The Search For Spock! Sadly Leonard Nimoy passed away this year and the HWOV had a link to an article about how Leonard Nimoy's legacy is being kept alive by naming an asteroid after him: 4864 Nimoy. Surely this is the answer, but wait, there is no Circle 4864 on the big map! There is only one other map to consult and that is the Genesis Mountain Fire District map in the Brown Bag and wasn't Genesis the planet where Spock was found? Sure enough, there is a station 4864 just a couple of miles up the road. But hold on. That is OFF THE MAP! That's right you must boldly go where no van has gone before! So engage your warp drive and fly over to Station 4864 to get your next clue.

A deep box with words at the bottom including the dreaded Jackass – this can't be good. Poetic hunters will link the box to the HWOW haiku “Oh big box big box, can office supplies outfox? No? String surely rocks.” Office supplies, string, what does this even mean? Well, the resourceful hunter will grab the “office supplies” packet of paper clips and string purchased at checkout and use the string to lower the paper clips into the box. When doing this, the hunter finds that the paper clip is attracted to the letters that spell out AKABONO, which will surely trigger you to reference the AKA sheet in the brown bag. Hunters should recognize this table in the desert as a partially completed game of Blackbox (after playing repeatedly using the HWOW link), with one piece remaining to be placed. The observant Hunter will also have noted that the same icon used for the balls is located several times on the map, and that the map is the exact size of the interior of the Blackbox game. Which one is the solution?!

Solving this game of Blackbox will indicate the location of the missing ball. By placing the map over the table, the ball would be located in square N9 on the map (make sure your Deloreans aren't upside-down). Given that there is only one Delorean icon on square N9, the wise Hunter should know that this is the correct solution and head to the

However, because all 5 binary numbers are palindromes, there doesn't appear to be an odd one out. However, after converting the binary numbers to decimal, Hunters find that the five numbers are 717, 2015, 7447, 9009 and 15351. Now that you are thinking about palindromes, you will quickly realize that the current year, 2015, is not a palindrome in decimal and thus is the odd one out. Beginning in 1970, all committee members with less than three years of respite from committee service and all committee members with six years of committee service are offered the opportunity to declare their cars Professional. This declaration must be made upon application for tickets to the Hunt. In 1981, the 1970 resolution was amended to limit those teams wishing to declare themselves Professional to those having three or more qualifying members under the 1970 resolution.

The Treasure Hunt Committee employs the following interpretations of these resolutions.

Professional teams agree not to compete against amateur teams in the Hunt. First, second, and third place prizes will be awarded to the three amateur teams with the lowest times per clue. If a professional team has the lowest time per clue for the hunt, the team will be added to the `Pro Button Winners` section of the Hall of Fame. Those team members whose status qualified the team for professional competition will be awarded Pro Buttons to be affixed to their previously awarded red hats. All Pro teams having times per clue better than the third place winners will be identified for their commendable performances, while those Pro teams that placed closer to the other end of the pack will also receive some `special` recognition.

Teams that are eligible to declare themselves Professional for the Hunt yet do not do so, for whatever reason, will compete as amateur teams and be eligible for the first, second and third place prizes.
